That's Enough! is a twelve-minute fictional drama about the relationship between youth bullying and school shootings. It is directed by Jack Revheim, a seventeen-year old Central High School (St. Paul, MN) exchange student from Norway. The screenplay is co-authored by Jack Revheim and Dr. Michael Obsatz, Associate Professor of Sociology, Macalester College, (St. Paul, MN), author of the award-winning book, Raising Nonviolent Children in a Violent World, and violence prevention educator. Dr. Obsatz is also the executive producer. The cast includes middle school students, high school and college students, as well as adults. More information about the video can be viewed at www.angeresources.com.

That's Enough! examines what can happen when a high school student is mercilessly teased, socially excluded, and physically wounded. It challenges middle and high school students to explore bullying at their schools and the cliques, struggles, and ostracizing that may result, and in some cases, has resulted in shootings and youth suicides. The video also includes a seven-minute interview with Dr. Obsatz about bullying issues and questions teachers can use for discussion.
